Electro-Plating Operator, RTI (Roser Tech.

Industries)

Titusville, PA 9

This job entitled me to bond nickel or copper to a copper plate, used in a mold for the continuous steel making industries. Went to New York to become certified and be given an achievement award in handling hazardous materials. This job required constant/daily maintenance and logging of pieces, so I worked usually 7 days a week. Used tools like grinders, impact guns and micrometers. Constructed back and side plastic plates to help concentrate plating to the designated places. The process involved a positive charge on the binds of nickel/copper to help give, and a negative charge on the piece that you are plating to help pull and bond. Working in a hazardous environment meant wearing chemical resistant gloves, sleeves, coat, and boots as well as being equipped with a respirator that I was physically, and fit tested for at Workers Care. Drove company trucks to several places including Ohio and Michigan.

I was also used to picking up or delivering parts in company trucks for production and use. Slight oversees in bending grease pipes and running hydraulic lines. Segment manager was asked to send his hardest worker to the plating area in the main building to help with the remodeling that was taking place. Management liked my services and granted me a promotion.
